

"We use Electude in conjunction with a textbook (from another publisher) as well as a sole source of content. Students really seem to enjoy using Electude over the hard copy books. They ask more questions. When they come into problems understanding the content, it gives us a chance to go further into explaining the topic. Electude helps students in a way that they can interact with the content being learned. The animations take learning to a totally new level in comparison to static images in a textbook. Students in our program that have experienced Electude as well as a common textbook, state that they prefer Electude over the use of a textbook.

We have also found that giving students time in class to complete web-based content gives them the time to have you help them with the topics they might struggle with. We give our students an hour every other day to work on Electude with our assistance along with assignments as out of class homework.

I would absolutely recommend Electude to fellow teachers. The support that comes with Electude is amazing. Very fast responses and they take feedback from the customers to help improve the product."

Matt Boudinot, Dakota County Technical College, USA